D. A. HAGGARD RESIGNS AS CITY ATTORNEY

Gives up the Office to Enter Law Partnership in Cheyenne, Wyoming--Broady Makes Application

Broady Resigns as Assistant Municipal Judge and is Named City Attorney Pro. Tem.
--Other Council Matters

All members of the city council were present at Monday night's session except Aldermen Koop and Smith. President F. A. Farrar presided.

Mayor R. A. Beise was present and told of the resignation of Night Captain Ole Anderson, that he had promoted Patrolman Cheney to the captaincy and had appointed A. P. Nordstrom patrolman. Mayor Beise asked that his appointment be confirmed and on motion, the council did so unanimously.

Alderman Anderson thought some friction might have developed in regard to the resignation of Capt. Anderson, that the latter had been unjustly accused of dereliction in duty, which Mayor Beise said was not the case. There had been some discussion about keeping loungers out of the depot waiting rooms.

City Treasurer A. M. Opsahl, in a communication, informed the council that he would continue to act as city treasurer until his term expired on April 30, 1917.

On motion of Aldermen Haake and Betzold, the clerk was instructed to request the city treasurer to appear at the Monday evening adjourned session of the council, January 22.

Iver Benson, head of the committee to which had been referred charges to be reckoned on the use of the steam roller, cement mixer and team on local improvements and he reported as follows:

| THIRD STREET PAVING | |

| Roller, 4 1/2 hours at $1..... | $ 4.50 |

| Total | $395.50 |
| 6TH AND LAUREL STS. PAVING | |
| Roller, 164 hours at $1..... | $164.00 |
| Mixer, 169 hours at $1.50..... | 253.50 |

| 4 hours roller at $1..... | 4.00 |
| Total | $118.00 |
| Grand total | $1027.75 |

On motion $1027.25 was ordered transferred from the revolving fund to the current expense fund.

City Clerk Mahlum reported on notifying the water and light board of $1,900 they owed the city for office rent, use of team, city engineer, etc., and a response was received in the shape of a two line communication which acknowledged receipt of the letter and said the contents had been noted.

D. A. Haggard resigned as city attorney, his letter reading:

"Owing to the fact that I am removing from Brainerd, and will therefore be unable to further perform the duties of city attorney, I hereby tender my resignation from that office to take effect at once. I desire to express my appreciation for the many courtesies which I have received at the hands of the members of the council."

The resignation was accepted. Bruce J. Broady tendered his resignation as special municipal judge and the same was accepted.

Mr. Broady then made application to fill the vacancy in the office of city attorney.

On motion Mr. Broady is to act as city attorney until the next regular meeting of the council.

M. E. Hitch reported on the status of a lamp post broken by one of his teams. He had first ordered repairs from the foundry in Minneapolis, but as they were grinding out other orders, no satisfaction was given him as to when a new post or any other kind of a post could be procured. So he cancelled his order for a post and was now awaiting supplies at Sherlund's, the latter having an acetylene welding machine which could repair anything.

Lawson's Charge of Rank Perjury Made to Henry

(By United Press)

Washington, Jan. 16.—Hurling the direct challenge to Chairman Henry this morning Thomas Lawson declared that "one or the other of us is a rank perjurer," the statement referring to Chairman Henry's denial of the Lawson charge that he, Henry, had named a cabinet member who was involved in the "leak" situation. "I want two hours to tell what I know about this business," Lawson flared out, "otherwise I am through as I don't propose to sit here and hear the committee wrangling about what is admissible in my evidence." The other sensation this morning came when Lawson declared that Chairman Henry told him "Count Bernstorff was mixed in the leak and that he made $2,000,000 by such knowledge."

Representative Harrison asked that J. P. Morgan and H. P. Davidson of the House of Morgan, F. A. Vanderbilt of the National City bank, New York, J. S. Bache and Sol Woxler be subpoenaed and the motion carried.

It is said that Morgan's office would go to Washington to testify if subpoenaed, but Morgan was not in when the statement was made.

The order to summons Morgan's partners came in the midst of the glaring testimony by Thomas Lawson that either he or Henry had committed perjury. He reiterated that Chairman Henry had mentioned the names of Secretary Lansing, Ambassador Bernstorff and Barch. Ruth Vicount, the star witness, has been missing all night.

Lawson asserted that Wall street had long benefitted from leaks, and particularly during the Mexican trouble.

SUPREME TRIBUNAL UPHOLDS MANN ACT

Washington, Jan. 16.—Interpreting the Mann white slave law the supreme court decided that prosecutions under the law for transporting women in interstate commerce are not limited to commercialized vice, and include personal immoral escapades. Conviction of F. Drew Caminetti and Maury I. Diggs of Sacramento was affirmed. The court was divided. The majority opinion was given by Justice Day. Chief Justice White and Justices McKenna and Clarke dissented. Justice McReynolds took no part in consideration of the cases.

"The plain terms of the act must take precedence over the designation and the report that accompanied it to congress," said Justice Day. "It is said it will open the door to blackmail, but that is to be considered by congress. We think the power of congress to regulate transportation of passengers affords ample basis to exercise authority in the case of this statute."

Test cases regarded as decisive of about 800 railroad claims against the government for approximately $35,000,000 additional compensation for carrying the mails from 1907 to 1911 were decided by the supreme court against the railroads. Appeals of the Chicago and Alton and Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroads from rejection of test claims were dismissed.

PAPER MILLS HITCH SEEN

Attorney General Says Part Expense May Fall Upon Editors.

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—Minnesota editors may be forced partly to finance the project recently launched by the Minnesota Editorial association for establishment of paper mills on state property, according to Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith.

"The state legally may acquire the needed waterpowers and lease them and timber tracts to a co-operative organization of Minnesota publishers, but it lacks authority to use state funds for the erection of paper mills, or to engage in paper making, as far as I have been able to ascertain," Mr. Smith says.

"Perhaps the state can sell pulpwood instead of leasing the timber land and in that way carry on the proposed reforestation of the spruce tracts for its country newspaper publishers, but state owned paper mills are impossible legally, as I read the present laws."

According to the provisions of the city charter if the proposed amendment to the liquor ordinance is to be brought up at the municipal election, April 3, the names of 10 per cent of the number of voters at the last municipal election are required. This would be 1,323.

Seeking to find a remedy for the continual overflowage by the Mississippi river of valuable lands in the upper river country, delegates from Aitkin, Crow Wing, Itasca and Cass counties were in session Monday at the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce.

Resolutions adopted recommended that the Mississippi be cleared of all obstructions between Pine Knoll in Aitkin county and the point where the Pine River enters, copies of the resolutions to be sent the representatives in the state legislature and congressmen of the district.

Regarding dams in the river, the general idea was to keep them at a lower stage of water, not to exceed 60 percent of high stage of water.

Complaint was made of high lake levels washing out lake banks in Itasca and Cass counties, of the expense incurred in building cement sea walls at Walker and other points where continual erosion is carrying away whole acres of water frontage.

More expert information is to be secured regarding dams and reservoirs. The delegates adjourned to Grand Rapids, where the next meeting will be held on February 8 at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

People of Brainerd and the Chamber of Commerce were thanked for their kindness and courtesy.

The secretary, F. E. Reuswig, was instructed to get stationery for the association. Funds to defray incidental expenses will be raised by having membership cards printed and distributed and sold by vice presidents in their respective counties at 50 cents per card.

The Chamber of Commerce delegates to the conference were James M. Elder, Wm. E. Willson, Thomas Long and Thomas G. Johnson.

The meeting at Brainerd had been called by the Aitkin county board of commissioners. Public bodies of the four counties will be asked to help in bringing pressure to bear on the war department at Washington "that the rules and regulations for the management of the government reservoirs on the headwaters of the Mississippi river be used in part to prevent floods and serve the agricultural interests."

UNABLE TO HEAL BREACH

Republicans and Progressives Fail to Get Together.

New York, Jan. 16.—A meeting here of the Republican national committee, called to heal the breach between the Progressive party and the parent body, split over the overriding of Chairman Willcox and the election of John T. Adams of Iowa as vice chairman of the committee.

Want advertisers practice the "don't worry" philosophy. With people who have learned to utilize classified advertising, the usual small "worries" of business and of home life do not loom at all large. If "help" is needed, want advertising obviates worry. If tenant-loss is imminent, want-advertising turns the matter into a mere incident.

They act upon the theory that when a thing gets big enough to worry about it is big enough to justify some want-advertising.

"Swedie" hopes to get one game

tation is extended all the fans of Brainerd to come out and two-step.

LAWSON CALMLY
DIVULGES NAMES

Creates Great Sensation Before
House Rules Committee.

INVOLVES SECRETARY M'ADOO

Mentions Representative Henry as Mysterious Congressman Who Told Him a Cabinet Officer, a Senator and a Banker Were Engaged in a Stock Gambling Pool.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Thomas W.
Lawson, hailed before the house rules committee to tell what he knew or had heard about a stock market leak on President Wilson's peace note or be punished, calmly declared that the mysterious congressman who told him a cabinet officer, a senator and a banker were engaged in a stock gambling pool was none other than Representative Henry, chairman of the committee.

Then, before his hearers had time to recover from the shock, Lawson declared the cabinet officer referred to was Secretary McAdoo; that the banker was H. Pliny Fiske of New York and that he knew the senator only by the initial "O."

To complete the explosion Lawson went on to charge that Paul M. Warburg of the federal reserve board had knowledge of the leak machinery and repeated a rumor that Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, had made $2,000,000 in the stock market.

Says Others Knew of Leak.

Lawson said he had been told that Malcolm McAdoo, the secretary's brother, knew of the leak, as did C.
D. Barney & Co. and Stewart G. Gibboney of New York.

A Mrs. Ruth Thomason Visconti of this city, he said, had declared to him in the presence of her attorney that Secretary Tumulty "received his bit," and that W. W. Price, correspondent of the Washington Star, was "the go between for Secretary Tumulty and others."

Lawson declared Henry had asked him on patriotic grounds not to press his charges.

At no time, the Boston financier testified, did he ever say he had direct information.

When Lawson had finished his recital Chairman Henry took the stand and swore that at no time had he mentioned to Lawson the names the financier brought out on the witness stand; that he had no information then and had none now of his own knowledge; and denied generally and completely all of Lawson's testimony relating to him.

When he had concluded Lawson rose and solemnly declared that every word he had uttered on the stand was the "truth, so help me God, without variation."

An Everyday Husband.
"My husband is such a blockhead!"
"How now?"

find, although I had told him plainly that her gown had sleeves of ulunox and velvet revers."—Exchange.

The legislature must pass on it, and in its discretion submit a similar measure, framed to eliminate "crudiwas the luckiest man going."

"Ah, but you haven't heard the latest. Six months ago he decided that he had made all the money he could possibly use, so he bought a farm and retired. He started to sink an artesian well in order to insure a supply of pure water. And what did he do but strike a coal seam! Now he's got to go back in harness again and make a whole lot of money that he doesn't need at all out of that coal seam.
Don't you pity him from the bottom of your heart?"—London Tit-Bits.

Potato Bread.

Potato bread is not alone a ration for war stricken peoples, but also a very pleasing and nourishing food which any American housewife can prepare by using a recipe made up by the department of agriculture. It calls for three pounds of boiled and mashed potatoes and two and a quarter pounds of wheat flour. Bread made with these materials has a rich brown crust, an appetizing odor, a very agreeable taste, and will keep fresh several days longer than ordinary bread.—Popular Magazine.

"What makes you so hoarse, Bob?"
"I was up the best part of the night singing to the baby, trying to make him stop crying."

"Then why didn't you stop singing?"

Mrs. H. J. Wilson and Little Mary are the Guests of Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson

There was no more pleased person at the depot this afternoon than Prof. J. A. Wilson when the St. Paul train brought in his daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. J. Wilson and his little grand daughter, Mary, who recognized him from afar and gurgled out a baby welcome as she held her hands outstretched for grandpa to receive her.

Bislar-Brown

Miss Cecile J. Bislar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Bislar, was married to William Eugene Brown on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the parsonage of St. Francis Catholic church, Rev. Father John Crean officiating and the witnesses to the pleasing ceremony being Mr. and Mrs. Frank Koepl.

The bride is a charming and pretty girl and was attired in a brown traveling suit and carried a bouquet of roses. For some time she has been a most efficient stenographer in court work and law offices.

The bridegroom is a machinist in the Northern Pacific shops, well liked by his employers and associates. The couple left on the afternoon train for St. Paul where they will spend part of their honeymoon and the rest in Chicago, being absent a week and a half.

After the ceremony this morning the wedding party repaired to the Ideal hotel where a charming wedding breakfast was served. The wedding came as a great surprise to many friends of the couple. The license was secured late Monday afternoon, too late for publication.

The Dispatch joins their many friends in wishing them unbounded happiness and prosperity.

China's Food Problem.

No natural resource is too trifling to be turned to account by the teeming population of China. The sea is raked and strained for edible plunder. Sea weed and kelp have a place in the larder. Great quantities of shellfish no bigger than one's finger nail are opened and made to yield a food that finds its way far inland. The fungus that springs up in the grass after a rain is eaten. Fried sweet potato vines furnish the poor man's table. The roadside ditches are baled out for the sake of fishes no longer than one's finger. Careful observers say that four-fifths of the conversation among common Chinese relates to food.

Twelve Talks on Music

I have felt for some time that a great many people enjoy music more, and perhaps take a greater interest in it if phases of the subject were explained.

I have arranged a series of Twelve Talks on Music, to begin on Saturday, January 20th, from 1:30 to 2:45 p. m., in the Iron Exchange Hall and continue weekly for the entire term. One Handel and one Beethoven sonata recital will be included in the series. Years of reading and research would be required to cover what I shall try to present.

The course is open to teachers, students of music in any of its branches, or music lovers. A charge of forty cents will be made monthly to cover expenses of hall and incidental expenses which may occur.

I hope you will give encouragement to the undertaking by your presence.

Sincerely,

EDWIN HARRIS BERGH.

"Handcuff King" Gives Bernhardt a Statue

After John Drew had presented to Sarah Bernhardt, "in the name of the actors of America," a statuette of herself, the widow of the sculptor sent her a bill. "The actors of America" had failed to pay for their gift. Thereupon Harry Houdini, the "Handcuff King," who is not recognized by "the actors of America," concluded it was a rather shabby piece of business, and he paid the widow for the statuette.

A Chance for the Best Girl Clown

(By United Press)

New York, Jan. 16.—There will be a thousand pretty girls in the girl circus to be given by the Vacation Association of America at Madison Square Garden March 7 to 10, inclusive.

Samuel McCrackin, who's directing the affair, which will be the regular, rip-roaring three ringed affair with trapeze performers, wild animals and everything, is looking for a girl clown. Any girl in the country may try for the job.

"But she's got to be genuinely funny," said McCrackin today. "She's got to look funny, she's got to stand funny, she's got to walk funny and she's got to be a pantomime artist that gets across. A comic wink would be an asset too."

Paderewski, Kreisler and the Boston Symphony orchestra are going to give a concert to raise funds for the circus, at the Metropolitan opera house tonight.

Collars Easily Made.

Pretty collars for wear with tailored frocks of serge, broadcloth or mohair and worsted mixture are of cafe du lait chiffon broadcloth with pinked edges. These collars are so delightfully easy to make that every woman should have five or six, for the light cloth rolls easily under the fur coat collar, and neckwear must be spotless. Since there is no hemming necessary such a collar may be made in ten minutes. All one has to do is to cut it out and attach a narrow facing of soft silk around the neck. The collar is then taken to a professional to be pinked around the edges. Some models show tiny scallops that might be nipped out by hand. One had a very steady hand and sure eye, but the professional pinking will give a more satisfactory result and costs but a trifle.

Heat Tests in Cooking.

An oven is hot enough for cake if it will brown flour in five minutes or if the hand can be held in the oven while counting twenty slowly. For frying, if the article is uncooked—doughnuts, for example—the fat should be hot enough to brown a bit of bread in forty seconds. If the article is cooked—croquettes, etc.—the fat should be hot enough to brown bread in twenty seconds.

Remade.

"He used to claim that he was a self made man."
"Yes."
"But I haven't heard him refer to that fact lately."
"No. Since his daughters grew up they've entirely remade him. The job he did was far from satisfactory to the experts."—Detroit Free Press.

A Woman Highwayman

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

I doubt if many women have made a greater swing of the pendulum of social condition than I. In the year 1790 I was put into a crib draped with Brussels lace. My father, the Duke of Montmarville, was a favorite of King Louis XVI., who showered him with favors. Ten years later my father had gone down in the reign of terror and I was an exile.

But I had in me the blood of warriors. The great Turenne was an ancestor of mine. Naturally when I found that I could not make a living as a woman I turned to the career of a man. I would have fought for France, but my ancestors had served their country under the royal standard bearing the fleur-de-lis. If I donned man's attire I must fight under the tricolor for the usurper Bonaparte, who was emperor by virtue of the blood of the king. No, I would not go into the army.

But I resolved to return to France. How I made my way there I can now hardly recall. I had become so used to hardship that the days I traveled on foot, the nights I slept in woods, my breakfasts of berries, my dinners—when I had them—given by some kindly farmer's wife, made no lasting impression on me.

I remember well that one day I found myself in boy's clothing at the gates of the chateau in which I was born. I asked a man passing who lived there. He said that an army contractor had bought the place from the government, which had confiscated it after cutting off the head of its owner, the Duke of Montmarville. Most women would have burst into tears. Instead, I was enraged.

"This is a world of robbery," I said, "and I will rob like the rest."

I stole a pistol, but I could find no ammunition to steal and had no money to buy any. But I soon had money aplenty, for I lay in wait for the contractor who occupied my birthplace, and when he was being driven into the gate by his fat coachman I stopped the coach, ordered the driver to dismount from the box and, opening the door, presented my unloaded pistol at the occupant and demanded his money. He happened to have a well filled purse, which he tremblingly handed me.

I found money made by robbing so easy and so lucrative that I bought a horse and equipment for the road. I did not think to wear a mask. I had no cause to hide my visage. I was the daughter of a duke, but not a soul in France knew me as such or knew me at all, for that matter. I robbed only at night, and no one could see my features in the darkness. One night I stopped a coach, and after receiving the contribution of a man in it and was about to turn away he said:

"Mademoiselle, I shall know that voice if I ever hear it again. You are not a man, but a woman."

"I care not if you do," I replied, "nor if you should see my features or know who I am, for mine is a wrecked life. I would it had been ended, as was my father's, on the guillotine."

"Who was your father?" he asked.

But I could not bring myself to let him know of the disgrace I had brought upon my family, and, putting spurs to my horse, I rode away.

A love for a life of adventure grew upon me, and I caught the spirit of a Claude Duval.

Hearing that a ball was to be given by a person whom Bonaparte had enriched as King Louis had enriched my father, a desire seized me to attend it dressed in the apparel of my sex. Donning an ordinary woman's clothing, I went to Paris and bought a costume fit for the rank to which I was entitled. On the night of the ball I hired a coach and a maid and when the entertainment was in full swing drove up to the door, alighted, went to a robing room and then down into the drawing room to the host and hostess, who were receiving their guests.

Madame looked at me in wonder, having never seen me before and uncertain whether I had been bidden or had come without an invitation. Her husband, who did not know all the guests, looked at me curiously. Their son, a man bearing thirty years of age, gazed at me with admiration as well as surprise.

"Pardon me," said his mother. "I do not recall your features."

"I am the Duchess of Mont-what-you-like," I replied.

All looked at me in astonishment, but I saw the younger man start. He recovered his equanimity at once and, offering me his arm, led me away. As soon as we were out of hearing he turned to me and said:

"I told you that I would know your voice should I ever hear it again, and to convince you that I was right you are the highway woman who robbed me of 10 napoleons a few months ago."

I tried to disengage my arm from his that I might take to flight, but he was stronger than I and held me.

"Fear nothing," he said. "I will keep your secret."

I never again donned man's attire. My victim persuaded me to permit him through his father to plead my cause with Bonaparte, who was endeavoring to conciliate the old nobility of France. In the end I received back a portion of my estate, including the chateau, and I now live there peacefully with my husband, whom I robbed on the highway.

KNITTED TAMS.

Tips About Making This Most Popular Headgear.

Knitters are directing all their attention to the making of tam-o'-shanters just now. While the tams will be worn to skating parties by grownups, they are intended largely for school-girls.

One attractive model of old rose wool is knitted on to a black velvet band, which fits closely around the head. The top of the cap is finished with a fluffy ball of fur.

Crocheted flowers are used extensively to decorate some tams. They are very effective affairs, the flowers adding a festive touch to the caps. No matter whether the flowers match the color of the tam or not, the result is just as smart in one case as in the other.

If one is making a tam for a girl who owns a roman striped scarf the colors of the neckpiece should be introduced in the hat. The entire hat might follow this suggestion, or a few rows of varicolored wool might be woven around the top of the model. Another method would be to finish the cap with a tassel made of various colored pieces of wool or silk.

It is really interesting to see the many shapes used for the caps. Some are round, others are square, many are hexagonal, while a few are made with diamond shaped pieces joined to give the tam eight sides.

A cheerful tam of yellow is crocheted in the alternate stitch. This stitch is done so that every two rows form a rib. A single crochet stitch is taken throughout, except that it is made through only the back of the next stitch, alternating straight through the entire strip. A military touch is gained by the introduction of a black velvet chin strap.

White Bread Fattening.

White bread is fattening because we rarely digest it completely. Starchy foods are quite unaffected by the gastric juices which digest the meats. Their digestive ferments are obtained chiefly from the saliva in the mouth, which therefore should be thoroughly mixed with each mouthful before swallowing. But white bread is so soft and lacking in substance that we unconsciously swallow it long before it has had a fair chance to become sufficiently fermented with the digestive saliva. The result is delayed digestion (if digestion takes place at all), and at the best the starch is very apt to be converted into disfiguring unwanted and unhealthful fat.

How to Get a Loan Under the Farm Loan Act

BY FRANK R. WILSON

Of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau
Written for the United Press

NOTE—Following is the first of a series of authoritative articles, prepared expressly for the Dispatch, on the workings of the new Farm Loan banks. They will be stripped of technicalities and tell in plain English just what the farmers want to know about the new system.—Editor.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The right to borrow under the Farm Loan Act is limited to farmers and prospective farmers. Prospective farmers who wish to borrow group themselves into Farm Loan Associations, each association being composed of ten or more farmers, and each association starting with a minimum of at least $20,000 of loans.

To join, a farmer merely makes application to the secretary-treasurer of the loan association in his community. If none has been organized he should get together the required number of borrowers and organize an association.

The Federal Farm Loan Board at Washington will furnish, on application, a blank form of articles of association for such organizations. Then the organizers meet and adopt these articles and sign them and the secretary-treasurer makes affidavit thereto.

This association then elects five or more directors and the directors then elect a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and a loan committee of three members. As soon as the Federal Land Bank of that district is ready for business it will provide this local association with additional blanks including an application for a charter and blanks for the loan committee to use in the work of appraising the farms.

As soon as the loan committee is elected it may proceed to appraise the farms upon which mortgages are to be placed. Its report, which must be unanimous, must accompany the signed articles of association and be filed with the Federal Land Bank of that district.

When this is done the appraiser of the Federal Land Bank will come to inspect the security offered and accept or reject the report of the loan committee.

No one farmer may borrow more than $10,000 nor less than $100. No National Farm Loan association may start with aggregate loans less than $20,000.

If John Smith, a farmer, desires to borrow $2,000 he invests in the stock of his local loan association one-twentieth of this amount, or $100.

His association then invests this money in the stock of the Federal Land Bank, enabling it thus to increase its capital so as to make another loan of $2,000 to some other farmer. The borrower gets his investment back when he pays off his loan, or he may turn it in as the last payment on his loan.

Farmers are required to form these organizations so that they eventually will control the Federal Land Banks. Each loan association votes in the election of the directors of its Federal Land Bank. Each association has a loan committee which values the

PRACTICAL DEMOCRACY

(A Series of Articles on the Short Ballot Movement)

BY H. S. GILBERTSON

IV.—The City Short Ballot.

Whenever the bosses have yearned to control a public office their first effort has been by some hook or crook to throw it into obscurity. It is so much easier to do what you want to and what people don't want you to if the lights are turned off.

Not only offices have been made obscure but whole divisions of government. The cities have suffered most. And by a seeming paradox, the way employed has been to give the people a foot or so more of ballot, a foot or so more of democracy. Until comparatively recent years the elections for city officials have been scheduled for the same day as the national, state and county officials. Newark, N. J., and a few other cities do it that way yet. It saves the city the expense of a special city election. It saves printing a second set of ballots. And, incidentally—it saves the bother of having the people give too close attention to the city offices.

The ballots created as an incident of this practice have been wonders in their way. Louisville, for instance had one in 1915 containing the names of candidates for fifty-nine separate offices. The candidates for aldermen and city councilmen (36 in all) are sandwiched in between the park commissioners and the state senator.

It was largely because councilmen in our great cities have been so obscure that they have been so corrupt. For, as Theodore Roosevelt said in a speech before the Ohio constitutional convention in 1912, "You cannot get good public service from the public servant if you cannot see him, and there is no more effective way of hiding him than by mixing him up with a multitude of others so that they are none of them important enough land of its members subject to the approval of the land bank appraiser and the Federal Land Bank. Each association has a board of directors which has the power to exclude or admit new members by a two-third vote. It is through this local loan association that the farmer invests the money to be used for increasing the capital stock of the Federal Land Banks, and this is how the farmer comes into possession of his own banking system.

Farmers are permitted to borrow up to 30 per cent of the appraised value of their land and 20 per cent of the appraised value of the permanent insured improvements thereon.

It is not necessary for a borrower to be an actual land owner when he joins, but the landless man must use the borrowed money to purchase land which he intends to immediately begin farming. Another chapter will be devoted to this feature.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The next installment will explain how loans under the Farm Loan Act are gradually retired.

Mr. Wilson Oldest President U. S. has Had in 60 Years

(By United Press)

Washington, Jan. 16.—President Wilson is the oldest executive to preside over the destinies of the United States for the last 60 years. When he is inaugurated for the second time March 5 he will be sixty years old, a span of years that no president has crossed since the inauguration of Buchanan in 1857.

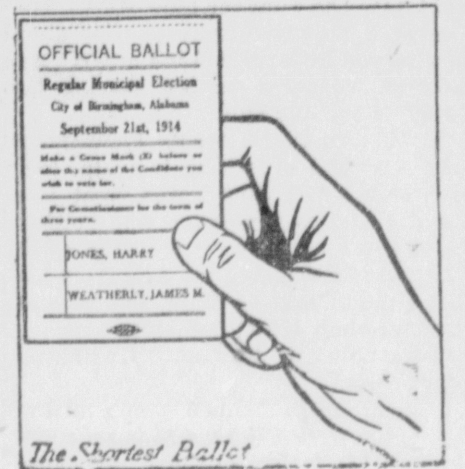

Incidentally the president is one of the six oldest executives ever in the White House. Previous to 1861 the men chosen to hold the reins of government generally reached a late period in life before their election. John Adams was 61 when inaugurated in 1797, Jackson also was 61 when first inaugurated in 1829. Benjamin Harrison was the oldest man ever chosen for the presidency, being 68 at the time of his inauguration in 1841. Taylor was 64 and Buchanan 65, respectively, when they were inaugurated respectively.

Aside from these all presidents have been younger than Woodrow Wilson when entering the White House. This has been particularly noticeable in the last fifty years when all executives have been comparatively young. Theodore Roosevelt was the youngest president ever inaugurated in this country, being but 42 when he took office.

The river Dee, in Scotland, has been the subject of more poems than any other stream in the British Isles.

to catch the eye of the average workaday citizen. . . . The professional politician and the professional lobbyist thrive most rankly under a system which provides a multitude of elective officers, of such divided responsibility and of such obscurity that the public knows and can know, but little as to their duties and the way to perform them."

But hundreds of cities have cleared the decks of political rogues and scoundrels. And the principal means that they have used in the Short Ballot—only a few officers to elect, those few having real power to do things for the city, in Birmingham, Ala., for instance, they elect a small Commission, two members or one at a time, and the ballot is beautifully simple and understandable. It is the shortest ballot in America. Responsibility in these cities, organized under one form or another of "commission government," is where one can place his finger on it. It is not the kind of government the bosses like because it makes their jobs superfluous. They say "commission government is a failure" and from their point of view it is.

The Favorite Insult

BY J. W. PEGLER,

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, Jan. 16.—"Why aren't you in the army?"

Next to calling a man a German, that is the favorite insult, amounting to "fighting words," now in use in London. The civilian hasn't much chance with his right.

The waiter with a little gold or silver strips on his sleeve, meaning that he has been shot or gassed, throws a sneering glance at the civilian diner. The soup is cold and the diner says so.

"The soup isn't cold in the army," is the waiter's come-back. "Why aren't you there?"

As the Conscription Act exempts nobody without reason, the civilian has a good legal right to be a civilian. But he can't go into details about his tribunal hearing so he scrapes the waiter's head with a ketchup bottle. But the civilian usually gets the worst of it regardless of whether he succeeds in punishing his tormentor. Public opinion just naturally drifts against him.

It is the same on the street if he accidentally bumps another pedestrian. He may apologize but if resentment isn't appeased the injured party reels off the crowning insult.

Americans generally escape because their "accent" excludes them from English army consideration. But once in a while someone makes a mistake as a bus conductor did with a New York chauffeur.

"Why aren't you in the army?" demanded the conny, after a trivial argument.

The New Yorker's reply was made to order.

"Sa-ay, listen, Cockney," he said contemptuously. "My army has kicked yours twice and if they have to do it again I'll be with 'em."

THE WATCHAMA COLUMN

Calls

The call is an inquisitive move made by poker players and society women when they want to see what the other fellow's got. In either case it is fatal if the other fellow has nothing.

The call is of infinite variety and many kinds. There is, for instance, the call: Of the Wild —Of the unutterable bore—Of the loan you can't pay—Of the neighborhood tomatoes at mid night—Of the bill collector—Of the boss when you're late.

"Call" is the preacher's way of describing an offer of a better job at more pay. But that's no call. That's a raise.

SPLIT REMAINS IN G. O. P. RANKS

Progressives and Old Guard Still Have Differences.

BORAH'S CONVINCING SPEECH

Amendment to Senate Resolution Followed His Words—McKellar Attacks Cold Storage as Responsible For High Cost of Living—Mann Hands a Nice Bouquet to Congressman Lever.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 16.—[Special.]—"Get together; get together!" Such is the cry of the Republican politicians. But the trouble is that they don't get together. Since the election there has been a deal of such talk; but, so far as observation goes from this point of view, the differences in the Republican party seem to be as great as when they went to Chicago last June and endeavored to patch up a truce between the factions.

The differences are most pronounced in the senate, where the independence of the Republicans of progressive tendencies are such as to irritate and annoy the standpat, or old guard, element of the party. The old line Republicans are still blaming the progressive element for the recent defeat, and the progressive element retorts, "What could you expect when you tried to take control of the party?" or words to that effect.

The 1912 Hang-over.

No matter what any one may say or do, the fact remains that there is a 1912 hang-over. The split that occurred that year at Chicago still divides the Republican party, and the line of demarcation is as plain as it was when Taft and Roosevelt led two different factions. The two factions are eyeing each other and watching every move. Neither side wants to see the other side loom up in the politics of the country with a presidential possibility. Any talk of future candidates meets the response that "he would be unsatisfactory to the progressives" or that "the old guard would never stand for him." That was the situation last year which forced the nomination of Hughes. The Republicans had to have a candidate who would not be unsatisfactory to either faction. As a result neither faction is quite satisfied now, and the division still exists.

A Convincing Speech.

It is not very often that a speech in the senate will convince senators or cause a change in proposed action. Borah of Idaho made such a speech on the resolution indorsing the president's peace move. It has been many years since a speech was listened to so attentively by senators on both sides and by the galleries. Before he had concluded he had convinced a large number of senators that he was right, and the resolution was modified to meet the strong objections which he had raised to it.

Cold Storage.

Congressman McKellar of Tennessee has again opened up on cold storage as one of the causes of the high cost of living. He will not accomplish anything in this session, but when he goes to the senate he can follow up this lead with good effect. McKellar will have so much more power as a senator that he ought to be able to force action of some kind on the legislation he has been advocating.

Another Mann Bouquet.

Jim Mann can't help handing out a bouquet from time to time. The other day he handed Congressman Lever of South Carolina, taking occasion to mention that it was Lever's birthday, and then he spread taffy thickly over the South Carolinian. Mann's wordy bouquets would make quite a nice little volume.

As Hardwick Sees It.

A discussion of what the United States might do happened in the senate, and Lewis of Illinois remarked that "we might abandon the constitution of the United States."

"Some of us have already done so," interjected Hardwick of Georgia, who believed that the constitution was sadly disfigured when the child labor bill was passed.

In and Out.

"When I took hold of the war department," remarked Secretary Baker, "I spent a lot of time trying to get men into the army. My later days have been occupied in trying to get men out who want to get out."

While they are talking about going to war, it might be well to scan the reports in the war department showing the desire of men to quit the service.

How Not to Do It.

Senator Townsend of Michigan is learning the game of "how not to do it" as practiced by the other fellows. For months he has tried to get a vote on the volunteer army officers' retirement bill. With a majority for the bill, he can get it up and have it debated, but he can't get it to a vote.

The other fellows know "how not to do it," and they are using their knowledge with success.

"Can't Eat the Gold."

"It is true that we are getting all the gold of the world," remarked Representative Fitzgerald, the embargo advocate, "but we can't eat the gold. Isn't there a fable of the miser who stacked up tons of gold and yet died

Former Canadian Northwest Mounted Police Reunion

BY J. W. PEGLER,

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, Dec. 19 (By Mail)—A little group of former Canadian northwest mounted police came together today in a brief reunion on the long trail of the war.

Together they fought the merciless Arctic weather at the northwest-most outposts of law and order. Before a fire in Regi Moreton's drawing room they traveled the old snow trails again. Moreton known as "Dick" in the northwest, has now retired to private life and less strenuous work for his country. In his home at Kingston, a suburb, he holds open house for his old pals, drawn from odd corners of the globe by the magnet of the war. Though the host wears spats and a high collar, he is the same Moreton, who once held the Canadian tennis and heavyweight boxing Canadian titles. He still evidences his speech with American slang, learned in the Hudson Bay Co. country.

"Lizzie Jacques" came to London from a training camp to meet the others, but Sergt. Maj. Billy (Peggy) Hope had spent his leave and returned to France before Jacques arrived. "Lizzie" is only his "service" name, he is really E. M. Jacques, a lieutenant in the Canadian-American legion and an ex-soldier of the 14th U. S. Infantry.

Sergt. Harry Walker, 84th Canadian battalion is the other voice in the accidental round up.

Hope and Moreton rode together back in 1900, "before they got electric lights and radiators in Dawson." "Hope was magistrate, mayor and mid-wife among the Eskimos near Fullerton, Hudson Bay," said Moreton. "He was the farthest north tribunal, a week's ride from the nearest white settlement."

"Walker left the force several years ago and started to make his fortune with a farm of silver foxes. He caught a paid and caged them up in a fox run, with wire running deep into the ground. With the little fox juniors in good health he had a good business in hand. One day he went into Dawson and learned that war had been declared. He never saw the foxes again, just turned them over to a friend, fortune, future and all, to join the army. We were in the riding escort that conducted the present king and queen of England 700 miles overland during their tour of Canada. That was a parade job. But I rode further than that in the Fournier and Labelle murder case, which wasn't any parade."

During the coronation tents were pitched in Moreton's garden in London and some of the old timers here to ride in the procession were kept busy with a serial program of two weeks. They carried back reports of Dick and the men of the force coming here expect they will look them up if he hears about them. The present meeting is short. Hope has been 18 months in France before coming here and Walker had seen active service. Moreton is considerably over army age.

"Hope will never be hit," said Moreton. "Nor Peggy, he's the luckiest devil on earth."

"What became of all the buds that were here two seasons ago?" questioned the tourist.

"Some have grown into bachelor's buttons and some into wall flowers,"—Exchange

Man's Perversity.

If the law were to edict that man and wife should never be together for more than six months in the year it would be broken every day and men and women would stand hunger and stripes to come together for twelve months in twelve. If love of home were made a crime a family life would arise more touching than anything Queen Victoria ever dreamed.—W. L. George in Atlantic.

Happily Disposed Of.

"Mr. Beats," the grocer said wearily. "I ask you for the last time, will you pay that $20 you owe me?" "For the last time?" Beats replied cheerfully. "I'm glad to hear you say that, old man. You know, I was getting awfully tired of hearing you ask that foolish question!"—New York Times.

Titles in Spain.

The Spanish military attaché said at a dinner in Washington: "Yes, Spanish titles are elaborate. I heard recently of an American girl who wrote home from San Sebastian to her millionaire father:

"Well, I'm engaged to three dukes, five marquises, seven counts, four barons and a don."

"What on earth do you mean?" her father cabled.

"Don't get excited," she cabled back. "It's all one man. He's a Spaniard."—Detroit Free Press.

Old Boycott on Coffee.

About thirty years or so ago nearly every family, including prohibitionists, drank Maracalbo coffee. The demand for that brand of coffee was so great that the coffee lords increased the price of Maracalbo coffee from 35 to 40 cents a pound. The Knights of Labor, headed by Terence Powderly, boycotted Maracalbo coffee for thirty days, and before a week the whole country joined the boycott. Before the thirty days had expired Maracalbo coffee sold at retail for 28 cents a pound.—Letter to New York Sun.

A GOOD WINTER HABIT

Many people dread winter because the sudden climatic changes bring colds, grippe, rheumatism, tonsillitis or bronchitis. But thousands of well-informed men and women today avoid much sickness for themselves and their children by taking a few bottles of Scott's Emulsion to make richer blood, fortify the membranes of the throat and chest and create body warmth to resist sickness. Soldiers at war receive cod liver oil; it will also strengthen you. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. M-3

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health. When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

HELEN STRACHAN HURT IN ST. PAUL

Miss Helen Strachan, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Strachan, of Duluth, was severely injured on a toboggan slide in St. Paul, her leg being crushed in contact with the slide. She is a student at Macalester college.

The fair patient was brought to Brainerd this afternoon in Mr. Strachan's business car and taken to the Northern Pacific railway hospital for treatment.

 BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

A symposium carried on in the Superior Telegram is causing attention. Here's the opening argument of one installment: "If the girls of Superior don't like the way the boys 'make love' it is up to them to suggest some new stunts. Considerable space was wasted on the fact that girls use talcum powder and the boys do too at the barber shop.

Brainerd has some of the prettiest school teachers of any western city and strangers too have commented on the fact. The bracing air of Minnesota gives them all rosy cheeks, sparkling eyes, translucent complexions and a light, elastic step.

Carnival suits are making their appearance on Brainerd streets. Some wear the coat, others just the cap, while the gauntlets are very handy any day.

Snow shoveling has taken on a mighty impetus since Mayor Belse's orders to get busy and it now ranks with other winter sports as a most healthful exercise. The fact remains, however, that in many households it's the lady of the house who does the shoveling while her husband gets the credit for his public spiritedness in keeping sidewalks clean.

Going shopping with your wife on pay day night is a touching experience.

Good intentions sometimes bring unlooked-for results. A special policeman walks into the Empress, makes a curtain speech to the audience about the little chimney fire next door and nearly stampedes the audience who hear only the word "fire." Manager F. S. Workman happened along and he quelled speaker, panic, etc., and the show went right along and nobody left the house.

Justice Snow Does Not Melt When It Comes to a Matter of Meting Out Justice to Drunks

Attorney G. S. Swanson and W. H. Crowell of Brainerd appeared in a justice court case here Friday afternoon, Mr. Swanson appearing for the village and the latter for Ray Deavers who was charged as being drunk and disorderly. He plead guilty and was assessed $35 for fine and costs. Justice Snow heard the case and publicly made the statement that the next person brought before him on a similar charge and found guilty, would be fined the maximum allowed by law, or $50 and costs.—Pillager Herald.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES DUE IN 1917

The Dispatch will publish from time to time the list of personal property taxpayers of Crow Wing county and of the city of Brainerd. The compilation of the list takes some time, as it affords every taxpayer the opportunity to see what his friend or his next door neighbor is paying.

These taxes are due and payable January 1. On and after March 1 a penalty of 10 percent attaches to delinquent payments. Many in Brainerd take pride in being among the first to pay their taxes.

St. Paul Outdoor Sports Carnival

Wonderful Moving Picture Pageants to be Held at Como Park and Town and Country Club

TWO ST. PAUL BEAUTY SPOTS

Minnesota Legislature Reviewed Parade of 3,000 Carnival Boosters Monday Noon

Last week was a busy one for those in charge of the arrangements for the St. Paul Outdoor Sports Carnival to be held in the Capitol City during the week of January 27 to February 3. Plans are fast shaping for the monstrous fete and activities have already begun.

On a date soon to be set by the Carnival directors, wonderful moving picture pageants are to be held at Como Park and at the Town and Country Club, two of St. Paul's beauty spots and these films will be sent all over the world, to carry to the people of the different countries the spirit of the St. Paul Outdoor Sports Carnival and to show to them what a wonderful opportunity for outdoor sports this section of the country affords. It is estimated that at least 20,000 persons in Carnival costumes will participate in these movies.

Monday noon John Phillip Sousa, one of the world's most famous band masters, Charlotte, the wonderful skater, Governor Burnquist and members of the Minnesota legislature reviewed a parade of over 3,000 carnival boosters arrayed in their gay costumes. This grand spectacle was held in front of the state capitol, which offered an appropriate background for the moving pictures.

Saturday of this week 3,500 St. Paul enthusiasts will invade Minneapolis to boost the Carnival and they will be entertained while there by Mr. L. S. Donaldson, one of the leading merchants of the Mill City, who has already organized a Carnival club among his employees. The principal streets will be paraded and the entire city will be invited to come to St. Paul to attend the fete.

So great has been the enthusiasm on the part of residents of St. Paul, as well as outsiders, that it is plainly evident that thousands will unite to "Make it a Hotter One" than was the great 1916 Carnival.

Ebbets Leading East Out of the Darkness

BY H. C. HAMILTON,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

New York, Jan. 16.—Charles H. Ebbets, discoverer of the Battle of Long Island and several other excuses for holidays, is still in the ring for Sunday baseball.

Winding up his campaign through the baseball season last summer, when he obtained signatures from thousands who visited his Brooklyn park, he is ready to make an attempt to get a bill through the New York legislature.

Critics in this city are of the opinion that Ebbets is going too far in trying to wedge in an extra playing day and point to figures, which they say, show that New York, with its six-day schedule, draws more persons than the western cities with seven day schedules.

How interesting. When you get down to the root of things and find that New York is six or seven times the size of most western cities, it is pretty easy to see why that is.

Brooklyn isn't hurt by week-end attendance. The big turn-outs on Saturday show what might be accomplished in the borough across the bridge if Sundays were open to baseball.

Out west they have played Sunday baseball for years, and no one makes any objection. Ministers receive and accept with no qualms season passes to minor league parks—and use them. They stay away from the Sunday games, but they don't miss the week-day matinees.

If the west is broad enough to see that a working man hasn't the time to go to a baseball game through the week, it is queer to see some one trying to explain why the east wouldn't like it.

The fans want Sunday baseball. The thousands who signed the petitions at Ebbets field prove that.

Fred Mitchell is quoted as saying he wouldn't have traded Bill James at his best for Alexander or Johnson. Wonder if Miller Huggins would.

B. H. S. BASKETBALL

(By E. J. G.)

Last Friday night the locals made a great advance in enemy's territory. The "K. A. U." of the B. H. S. invaded Altin and walked off with a clean-cut decisive victory over the Altinians, the score being 20 to 14. Altin admits that their team is just as good if not better than former teams but they are not able to cope with the boys of the B. H. S. A report has reached some members of the high school that Altin played the rough act pretty thoroughly and from some marks that some members of the quint are carrying, we are ready to concede this point. However, Altin got the short end of it and Brainerd high school came out in the lead so everyone smiles. But that isn't the big idea. Brainerd high school has in store for you a "thriller," a regular one. Little Falls has donned the war paint and are expected in full array next Saturday.

Although to the best of our research, the all-state forward has left Little Falls, and will not appear in the abbreviated costume. If this is really true, we certainly do extend our heart-felt sympathy to Little Falls for the loss of such a feature. We had expected to see Mr. Tanner attired in the L. F. H. S. uniform but evidently fate is against us in this matter. From pretty good authority it has been learned that Sims, Lavine, Dobbin, Elvig and Grimes of former years' fame are again listed on the L. F. H. S. quint and will appear at the "thriller" Saturday night. It is hoped that Little Falls will bring a large delegation of rooters with them for we sincerely feel that necessity calls for it.

Reports in circulation give us the fact that Little Falls met Staples at Little Falls and annihilated them by the gigantic score of 113 to 6 (Little Falls evidently is almost as good as St. Cloud at this act.) Sims, center of the Little Falls quint, succeeded in getting 24 baskets chalked up to his name. (We'll admit that's going pretty fair—but think of our Crosswell.)

Little Falls is in her glory, but remember, little down stream city, "Pride goeth before a fall" (and it'll be a hard one.)

John McGraw has gone to Cuba where they have hot air always.

Les Darcy doesn't like smoke in American arenas. They have more of it in the trenches.

Repairs to National league baseball parks have been halted now that Gavy Cravath has left.

ITALY EXPLAINS HER AMBITIONS IN WAR

Rome, Jan. 16.—Italy's territorial aspirations in connection with the war were explained and defended by Francesco Ruffini, minister of public instruction and a historian of prominence, in a statement to the press.

"In the note of the allies to President Wilson," he said, "they make a point which is understandable to neutrals and particularly to America.

"Italy, no less than her allies, awaits with calm confidence the realization of the aims set forth in that passage of the note which refers to the redemption of Italians subject to Austria.

"The German press seeks to depict Italy as desirous of conquests, but American public opinion, so far seeing, so well educated to freedom and to a deep spirit of national unity, cannot confound brutal lust of conquest with a justified claim to territories with populations like those of the Trentino, Istria and Dalmantia.

"These territories have had only one civilization in their history, that of Italy, and only one great humiliation, which must cease, that of foreign domination which attempted to destroy the principle of nationality.

"Austria was responsible for the outbreak of the conflict, having willed war with Serbia after provoking Italy a hundred times with violent persecutions of Italians of Trent, Trieste, Fiume and Zara, whom she denied even the right to educate themselves in their own language."

BATTLE OCCURS IN MACEDONIA

French and Austrian Forces Collide at Two Points.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE ABATES

Attacks on German Positions in Riga District Becoming Less Violent. Roumania Continues to Be Only Theater Where Vigorous Operations Are in Progress.

London, Jan. 16.—The Russian offensive in the Riga region of Russia having abated to such slight proportions that neither the Russian nor German official communications deal with it Roumania continues to be the only theater where vigorous operations are in progress, although there are indications of the possibility of another big battle on the Macedonian front soon. There have been engagements in Mesopotamia in the vicinity of Kut-El-Amara.

The Teutonic allies are in full control of Vadeni, six miles southwest of Galatz, Roumania, and Galatz is under the fire of the Bulgarian artillery from the right bank of the Danube. After the occupation of Vadeni, which was the last town south of the Sereth held by the Russians and Roumanians, the Russians made a vigorous attack in an attempt to dislodge them.

Turks Repulse Russians.

The Turks, however, put down the attack, according to Berlin, which also reports the repulse of Russian offensives near Fudenli, on the Lower Sereth, and between the Kasino and Suchitza rivers, near the Moldavian frontier.

In Macedonia on the Western wing south of lake Ochrida there have been several encounters between the French and the Austro-Germans, in which the Teutonic allies are declared by Germany finally to have driven the French across the Czerna river. Farther south, on the eastern shore of Lake Malik, the French record a slight advance for their troops near Zvezda. To the east along the Dolran front the British have raided the village of Akinjali and also bombarded the town of Neochari from land and sea.

According to London the right bank of the Tigris river, except for a small strip northeast of Kut-El-Amara, has been cleared of Ottoman troops.

ALL MUST BACK UP TROOPS

British Official Says Armies Alone Cannot Win.

London, Jan. 16.—Arthur Henderson, minister without portfolio in the British war council, speaking at Croydon of the necessity of the whole of the entente allied nations standing behind the men on the battlefield, said: "There is too much of the feeling that this war can be won on the battlefield alone. But if all consecrated themselves for the ideals for which we entered the war, as expressed in the allies' note to President Wilson, I confidently believe this year will inaugurate an era of peace.

"That peace can only be satisfactory and permanent if it is founded on the defeat of unrestrained militarism and accompanied by a league of nations sufficiently strong to keep existing armies in their proper place, prevent the inflation of armaments and procure the enforcement of international law."

GOVERNMENT SEEKS FACTS

Queries Berlin About Ordering Diplomat From Bucharest.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Inquiry was addressed to Germany by the state department as to the truth of press reports that German authorities had asked all neutral diplomats to leave Bucharest, Roumania, and had provided for that purpose a special train.

Official information is desired, so American Minister Vopicka can be authorized to depart if necessary. No instructions have been sent him since he was ordered at the time of the fall of Bucharest to stay in Roumania.

Officials are at a loss to understand why the German government should wish to send the whole neutral diplomatic corps out of the captured Roumanian capital, though it is admitted she has the legal right to do so.

Texarkana, Ark., Jan. 16.—It took just ninety minutes to try, convict and sentence to electrocution John Hawkins, negro, for murder of Mrs. Ben Diles and her eighteen-month-old daughter at Ashdown, Ark., Nov. 3, in an attempt to rob their home.

Sent to Prison for Life.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—J. Maurice Pettit, who killed his young wife, Mrs. Katherine Pettit, by cutting her throat in their home last August, to "keep her pure," as he said, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Joliet by Judge Barrett in the criminal court.

SUBMARINE SIGHTED MOVING WESTWARD

New York, Jan. 16.—News that an unidentified submarine was moving westward in the Atlantic as late as last Thursday morning was brought to port here by the British freight steamship Clematis, in from Bordeaux, France.

Persons on the freighter thought the undersea boat might be the German submarine merchantman Deutschland on a third voyage to America.

The stranger made no move to attack the Clematis, which was at the time approximately 800 miles east of Newport, R. I.

FAILS TO EFFECT AN ADJUSTMENT

Mexican-American Joint Commission Disbands.

WILSON TO SOLVE PROBLEM

Delegates Representing the United States Recommend Dispatch to Mexico of Ambassador Fletcher and Withdrawal of Troops From the State of Chihuahua.

New York, Jan. 16.—The Mexican-American joint commission, which failed to effect an adjustment of the questions at issue between Mexico and the United States, after a series of conferences that began four months ago, has been dissolved formally.

Secretary of Interior Lane and the other members of the American commission, Dr. J. R. Mott and Judge George Gray, told the Mexicans they had recommended to President Wilson the dispatch to Mexico of Ambassador Fletcher and the withdrawal of American troops from Chihuahua.

The Americans impressed on the Mexicans that with the dissolution of the commission the Mexican problem reverted to President Wilson. They were careful not to leave in the minds of the Mexicans the conviction President Wilson would accept the recommendation that an accredited diplomat be sent to Mexico and General Pershing's force be withdrawn, but the intimation he would do so was conveyed.

Despite the Americans' care, however, the Mexicans had little doubt full diplomatic relations between the two governments soon will be re-established and that unless unexpected complications arise American troops will be removed from Mexican territory in a few days.

Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission, and Ignacio Bonillas and Alberto J. Pani, the other members, said they expected to leave within a week or ten days for Mexico.

SAYS ALLIES REQUIRE MEN

London War Critic Urges Renewed Vigor in Attack on Teutons.

London, Jan. 16.—The Times military correspondent maintains that the prolongation of the war, "as the result of the foredoomed failure of the peace move," throws on all the allies the duty of making greater efforts in order to deserve victory. He says that Germany did not wait for a reply to her peace offer but initiated measures a month ago to expand her supply of men and munitions.

"We ought to see," the correspondent writes, "clearly enough now, that our efforts on land and especially on the western front have not been adequate to secure a decision or even to deserve it."

Referring to the imputation, "with a tendency to exaggeration," that the British have 2,000,000 men in France and the French have 3,000,000, he says: "Statements of this nature serve rather to obscure the issues than to illuminate them. The truth of the situation in the west is that Germany has 128 divisions opposed to us and that the number of French, British and Belgian divisions is not yet such as to promise a decision in an offensive war."

THREE CAPTAINS OF ARMY DISMISSED.
Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 16.—Three captains of the United States army have been dismissed from service, according to a message received by the commanding officer of Fort Leavenworth from the war department. They are William H. Armstrong, Fred H. Gallup and Harry Graham, who were tried by courtmartial last July on charges of tracing maps of the Fort Leavenworth reservation and turning them in as their own drawings. The men were student officers at the post.

TEST NEW MARKETING PLAN

As outlined by Rabbi Levy to the Pittsburg Association of Credit Men the postoffice will provide books in which producers in rural districts may list their products, with prices and approximate parcel post charges for delivery to the customer here. Those desiring farm products, fruit and vegetables may consult the list.
